Tugboat Launches Web Design Service for Dockspace

Award Winning Data Recovery Providers Have Great Website Service Too

February 12, 2007

Tugboat Enterprises, makers of Selkie Rescue Data Recovery software and a leading provider of webhosting and deep data storage services, today announced the launch of their new web design service. If you want to create a presence on the web and need safe and secure hosting, whether you have a domain name registered or not, and look no further than Dockspace.

Built on the world leading Rackspace system, Dockspace offers a guaranteed 24/7 uptime. Tell Tugboat what kind of web presence you are looking for, and whether it's a personal or family site, or a top-selling commercial site, their expert designers are on hand to build and manage your site for you quickly and affordably.

Take a look at Dockspace now! Simple hosting plans start as low as US $6.25 per month, and estimates for building, or building and managing, a web presence are given quickly and without any obligation on your part. No matter how you use it, Dockspace on Rackspace makes your website the top priority.

All this includes the Dockspace on Rackspace 100% uptime guarantee.
