/24-7PressRelease/ - July 17, 2005 - Journal Home, owner and founder, Ant Onaf has constructed the most talked about newsletter of 2005! The newsletter is titled "13 Steps to Successful Blogging". This powerful newsletter offers simple in-depth tips, advice, and instructions. The newsletter is set up in lessons throughout a 45-week course. The power of the newsletter lies within the strength of delivery. It does not only enhance your natural writing talent it prepares you for being a professional writer or blogger. It also gives you the skills needed to promote and market any blog or website. The newsletter is introduced with a Journal Home original article "13 Steps to Successful Blogging". The article summarizes each of the 13 steps which are discussed in length within the newsletter.

This newsletter is pure genius and gets you to the top of your industry 100% FREE. It's amazing. It's so simple. Best of all, these steps can be applied for any media on the web and you can successfully make it to the top for your niche. Most of the instructions are geared around basic search engine optimization techniques. The newsletter doesn't begin to pick up speed until about the 5 or 6 week, but it prepares you well for the wealth of information you are about to receive.

I've followed the lessons step-by-step and within 1 year I seen a significant difference in my writing style, my blog performance, and my financial growth. It really works. The newsletter explains how to begin blogging with a free blog hosting service such as JournalHome.com. In the end it explains how to upgrade from a free service to a domain hosted solution. The newsletter guides you each step of the way, from novice to professional.

Anyone serious about blogging or writing should definitely take heed to these lessons. I rate this newsletter as a must have for any blogger or writer!
