/24-7PressRelease/ - LOS ANGELES, CA, July 26, 2007 - One Indy film company is finding out how passion and hard work can set their dreams in motion. Lifeforce Indy-Films Entertainment has been informed that not one, but two of their films have been accepted by the Long Beach, Action On Film International Film Festival, acknowledged as one of the best Film Festivals in the world as it continues to grow.

"What an honor it was to hear that two of our films made the cut." said Jaime Gomez, co-founder of the entertainment company. "Our motto is 'Shoot Films, Not People and Amplify the Voice of the Individual'. It's nice to know the Indy voices are being heard."

The films are titled 'In the Blink of an Eye', a powerful, must see movie for anyone who understands the daily struggle and temptations one faces when it comes to choices in life and the fight to claim what is yours, and 'Save the Regency', the very touching, true story of the destruction of the famous Hollywood Regency Apartments and the historic stories of people like John Waters, the death place of Divine and the home of trysts by JFK himself!

These films will be showcased to attract the attention of major distributors, producers and other professionals in the industry. Jaime Gomez, best known for his 5 years starring on NASH BRIDGES and the blockbuster TRAINING DAY, along with partner Tony Boldi are proving to Hollywood that great films come from the heart and can be made on a shoestring. Perhaps the professionals in the audience will see just how the talent, passion and vision of these two young men can make a difference in Hollywood Thank you, the AOF Team.
