Power Manager 3.7.1 - serious energy saving for Mac OS X

DssW announces the release of Power Manager 3.7.1 for Mac OS X. Power Manager 3 helps schools, businesses, and homes save energy by automating their Macs. This release includes improved logging support and a bug fix for daily events.

/24-7PressRelease/ - HEREFORD, UK, December 20, 2007 - DssW, the leading developer of Mac energy saving software, today announced the release of Power Manager 3.7.1 for Mac OS X. This release includes improved logging support and a bug fix for daily events. Power Manager 3 helps schools, businesses, and homes save energy by automating their Macs.

Power Manager 3.7.1 includes improved support for logging the scheduler's activity and interaction with client applications. Syslog support is important for administrators wanting a more detailed understanding of Power Manager's activities.

This release fixes a bug affecting daily event triggers. The bug occasionally causes events to occur on days when they are not scheduled.

"Power Manager 3.7.1's release again demonstrates our commitment to producing robust solutions." said Graham Miln, DssW's director. "It has been a great year for Power Manager 3. Our goals for Power Manager during 2008 will both surprise and delight our users."

Power Manager helps schools, businesses, and homes save energy by automating their Macs. Users can schedule their Macs to start up or wake, shut down, restart, log out, switch to the login window, and sleep.
