ICG Software presents at the CeBIT 2008 its ERP for integral business management "ICGManager"

A solution for the centralized management with an important platform for business planning. ICG will be present at the CeBIT show in stand C58 of hall 17.

/24-7PressRelease/ - LLEIDA, SPAIN, February 15, 2008 - From 4 to 9 of March, the German city of Hannover will host the 2008 edition of the CeBIT, the most important technology show in Europe. During those days, the ICG Software group, a Spanish company who manufactures and sells quality technology for enterprise management, specialized in the sectors hospitality, retail, industry, distribution and services, will present its integral management software for companies, ICGManager.

The ICG Group offers businesses an integral solution which includes all departments: from the creation and revision of budgets and quotations to the most automated forms of invoicing, from the reception of orders by internet through the preparation of shipments; from the definition of purchase templates to stock optimization, putting special emphasis on the financial and accounting management and the treatment of the information through powerful report- and cube generators.

The ICGManager software for businesses is the ideal solution to manage, order and control an enterprise in a trustworthy and secure way. It is a working tool that assures an integral management of all departments (production, commercial, logistics, finances, accounting, management ...)

With ICGManager distances disappear, because it allows you to centrally manage different businesses with a single tool. This ICG solution provides at any moment all information of the business's status, managing documental traceability, and allowing you to take business decisions at the moment, thanks to the analytical statistics available in this enterprise management solution.

The Enterprise Resource Planning -ERP- offered by ICG, through the business management software ICGManager, expedites tasks, improves production processes and reduces costs.

Besides ERP solution, highly configurable for any type of business, ICG develops vertical applications for hand terminals. The ICG AutoSales solution incorporates all needs of a distribution company with travelling salesmen: control the stocks in the van, pre-sales management, delivery of services to suppliers of superstores, etc. The generated documents are daily uploaded to the central or are remotely send through mobile communication channels.

ICG also has hand-held applications for warehouse control with Wi-Fi or GPRS communication. Furthermore, the company has developed an important planning platform, incorporated in the ERP.

The ICG CRM (Customer Relationship Management), integrated in ICGManager, is a completely configurable platform for the planning, tracking and scheduling of all activities of a business related with clients and suppliers. With this platform, ICGManager facilitates the work of call registration, visits and agreements and guarantees a more efficient planning and scheduling of the sales team, the management of technical services and the registration of calls through a Call Centre. With the CRM of ICG a business can guarantee the generation and organized tracking of marketing campaigns and the implementation of quality norms, project management and real estate management, amongst many other applications.
