Experience Colonial Mexico at the Hostal de la Noria

The Hostal de la Noria in Oaxaca, Mexico, helps guests experience colonial Mexico at its best.

/24-7PressRelease/ - OAXACA, MEXICO, February 15, 2008 - Housed in a beautifully restored colonial mansion, the Hostal de la Noria, a lovely hotel and charming courtyard restaurant is located just blocks away from the city square, making it a comfortable place in the heart of busy Oaxaca from which to navigate the city and its surrounding areas.

Because of its strategic location, the Hostal de la Noria is accessible to the state capital's recreational and cultural districts, specifically the municipal buildings in the zocalo and Alameda de Leon square, the Temple of San Felipe Neri, Cathedral of Oaxaca, Basilica of the Solitude, and the Rufino Tamayo Museum of Pre-Hispanic Art. The archeological sites of Monte Alban and Mitla are likewise of close proximity.

Apart from its rich cultural heritage, Oaxaca is likewise a city of gastronomic delights. One of the city's most renowned specialties is the mole, a rich sauce that combines ground nuts, chilis, spices, tomatoes, and chocolate, which can be sampled at the Hostal de la Noria's Asuncion Restaurante and Los Chapuline Bar.

The Hostal de la Noria's furnishings reflect a casually elegant yet rustic air that reflects the city's rich cultural history. Tasteful decorations ensure an enhanced Oaxacan experience, coupled with modern amenities that guarantee your maximum comfort. All rooms at the hotel are equipped with telephones, air conditioning, cable television, private toilets and bath, among others. The hotel has likewise established an online reservations system in partnership with direct reservations specialist DirectWithHotels in an effort to further improve its services.
