Quick Accountant: an eBay Accounting Spreadsheet by LaptopCentral is Released

Quick accountant: an excel accounting spreadsheet tailored for ebay businesses by developer LaptopCentral is released.

/24-7PressRelease/ - DAVISON, MI, February 28, 2008 - The release of LaptopCentral's Quick Accountant excel spreadsheet is the culmination of 6 months of development, tweaking, and testing. As owner Tyson Moore puts it "The development process was more fun then anything." This is not a surprising statement after getting to know more about this process. Moore says his program was developed as his company needed. LaptopCentral has been selling laptop replacement parts on eBay for close to a year now and Quick Accountant was developed with their company's personal use in mind. Moore says "This was going to stay in house until in testing realized that this spreadsheet could help other business owners keep there finances in order."

The spreadsheet itself is pretty streamlined and easy to use. The user just inputs some simple data and the spreadsheet goes to work calculating information for the user. When asked about competitors like Quick Books Moore had this to say "We really don't see them as a direct competitor, there software cost between $400 and $1000 dollars at $5.99 we are just looking to offer a great low cost alternative."

LaptopCentral Bio:LaptopCentral, a small company out of Davison MI has been selling laptop replacement parts on ebay for around a year. After about 6 months the company needed some accounting software to keep track of their ever growing business. This is when quick accountant was born.
