

Press Release Contact Information:

Rachel Roter
iSekurity
Director, Public Relations
Washington, DC
Voice: 800.474.7280
E-Mail: Email us Here
Website: Visit Our Website

New Company Brings Over 100 former Federal Agents into the Fight Against Identity Theft

The field of personal identity theft solutions became more interesting this month with the announcement of iSekurity. The company offers a new system of identity theft prevention and detection that attacks the problem at its source.

/24-7PressRelease/ - WASHINGTON, DC, March 27, 2008 - The field of personal identity theft solutions became more interesting this month with the announcement of iSekurity. The company offers a new system of identity theft prevention and detection that attacks the problem at its source.

iSekurity fills the void left by the usual preventative controls such as credit monitoring and fraud alerts. Recognizing that these measures have limited effectiveness and that most crimes are never investigated, iSekurity aims to solve the problem by identifying and locating the person(s) responsible. In speaking about the iSekurity unique approach, company president, Reginald Ball states, "The only way to really beat identity theft is to find the criminals and hold them accountable. No one in the business takes the issue this far into the realm of an actual resolution of the crime"

By utilizing its national team of elite former federal law enforcement Agents whose backgrounds consist of IRS, Secret Service, FBI, DEA, ATF, Customs and Postal Inspectors, the company provides members with access to high-level investigations, assistance in identity restoration, it's Sekure Scan SM early detection technology, and the most sophisticated financial coverage in the industry. A variety of both personal and corporate memberships are available with the cost of coverage averaging less than $1/day. With over 2,000 years of Federal law enforcement experience, iSekurity is soon to be an industry leader.

iSekurity was formed by a group of former Federal agents and experts in the fields of information technology, marketing and business development. iSekurity has deep roots in the security business; holding various personal security patents as well as authoring the Four Fingers For HelpSM child safety program, and Sekure ScanSM technology.

The company maintains it's headquarters in Washington DC, satellite offices throughout the United States and runs a command center in Auburn Hills, Michigan. Corporate packages can currently be obtained by calling iSekurity Sales at 800-434-8177. Individual Charter Memberships are currently available at www.isekurity.com via invitation through May 1st, 2008, after which time the services will be available to the general public.

To access the website prior to May 2nd, or inquire about a charter membership, please call 800-434-8177.

Contact:
Rachel Rotger
iSekurity
Phone: 800.474.7280
Email: rotger@isekurity.com