Mac of All Trades Gives Apple Computers New Lease on Life with Reconditioning

Used Macs Get a Second Chance With Reconditioning

/24-7PressRelease/ - TAMPA, FL, April 04, 2008 - New Apple hardware releases provide an opportunity for used Apple computers to find new homes thanks to reconditioning by Mac of All Trades. Apple-trained technicians clean and test used Macs, which are made available to new owners at low prices.

Many Mac users want the latest Apple hardware, but need to sell an old Mac when upgrading. Individuals can sell these computers to Mac of All Trades, where they are reconditioned and resold to new owners at low prices. According to Michael Snyder, president of Mac of All Trades, "We give sellers a good price for their used Mac, and provide buyers with a safe, no-hassle way to buy the reconditioned equipment at a great price with a 30-day hardware warranty."

Due to this cycle of reuse, Macs that would have been discarded or idly sat in storage can live up to their full potential. Sellers profit from the sale of their old Mac, and new owners save money on the reconditioned Apple hardware. Used Mac buyers and sellers can find more information at MacOfAllTrades.com.
