Wild Heart Ranch Inc., a children's toy and publishing company that has built its brands around original stories about nature and endangered species, brings attention to the new finding of Bactrian Camels as pets and natural healers

/24-7PressRelease/ - POINT ROBERTS, WA, Delta, B.C. April 10, 2008 - www.WildHeartRanch.com, Wild Heart Ranch Inc., a children's toy and publishing company that has built its brands around original stories about nature and endangered species, brings attention to the new finding of Bactrian Camels as pets and natural healers. As an endangered species the Bactrian camel has needed our help to save it from extinction and in return they seem to have something to offer us.

The Camels are now being used for therapeutic use and are acclaimed as great pets for the family. In the USA these gentle creatures have been used for therapy for hospital patients and bring cheer to those in need of it. Their quiet nature and remarkable intelligence make them the perfect animal to use for therapy as a natural healer

As well the Bactrian Camels are a great pet for the family. "You could spend a lifetime looking for an animal companion as friendly as a dog, smart as a fox and strong as a horse. Or you could get yourself a camel...." A recent article asked a US family about their unusual pet. "People ask, 'Why own a camel?' ", a high school math teacher says Geoff Dean. "And I say, 'Why own a dog?' was the answer back.
