/24-7PressRelease/ - LONG BEACH, CA, April 17, 2008 - Quotefall.com, the premiere place on the Internet for quality Quotefall-style puzzles, has released their sixth edition of their successful series to date. This edition contains 180 Quotefall puzzles that range in difficulty from "hard" to "difficult." Earlier editions have included easier puzzles, as well as the monthly editions which contain a variety of difficulty levels from "easy" to "difficult."

As interest in puzzle-solving has exploded in popularity in recent years, many different websites have staked their claim to become the most popular puzzle site on the Internet. Through it all, Quotefall.com has remained steadfast in its simple, low-tech method of releasing one free quality puzzle per day that their viewers can instantly print and solve at their leisure.

"We find that as Internet usage and interactivity becomes more sophisticated, our viewers welcome our 'paper-and-pencil' simplicity of solving Quotefall puzzles," stated Michael Reese, founder and self-proclaimed "resident goof-off" of Quotefall.com. "With a multitude of quotations and historical figures to choose from, our viewers find our puzzles not only enjoyable, but they also appreciate the wit and wisdom of the most influential people in history."

Reese has also indicated that he has received inquiries from newspapers and publications about syndicating puzzles from Quotefall.com. He said, "We are actively assessing our options with regard to newspaper and periodical syndication to ensure that our viewers and potential readers will be able to solve our puzzles in the most convenient and enjoyable way possible."

Quotefall.com, started in 2007, offers a free daily puzzle, a monthly edition of their puzzles, and occasional special editions. In addition, Quotefall.com has the most detailed solving instructions for Quotefall puzzles on the Internet.
