Online Concert And Sporting Event Ticket Resource Unveils New Discounts

A large discount is now being offered to help save consumers money on their concert and sport tickets.

/24-7PressRelease/ - NEW YORK, NY, April 23, 2008 - An online resource, TicketsAreUs.net, has recent unveiled its new discount on concert, theatre, and sporting event tickets.

TicketsAreUs.net has been a leader in the ticket wholesale business for a sturdy track record. In order to show its appreciation to customers, the resource has thus allowed consumers to get a discount on any new ticket sales. The discount comes via a promotional code that the company has created for the checkout process.

Customers who qualify for the new promotional code get an instant 5% deducted from their ticket price. For tickets that commonly go above a hundred dollars for one event, this discount is indeed helpful. It comes as a special "thank you" from the company who has kept a warm relationship with clients from around the world.

In addition to the new discount offered as of late, the resource at TicketsAreUs.net also offers discounts for groups. Because the resource caters to hundreds of different events, this means that consumers of all types and backgrounds can afford to see their favorite sports team, artist, or theatrical event without breaking the bank.

Because of their warm welcome to the community, the response has been vast. Long time customers and new customers alike both enjoy the discounts that are often necessary for some consumers to even afford a ticket of any kind. It is expected that the leadership and good public relations of the company will only be compounded in the years to come, as clearly their goals have already demonstrated.

TicketsAreUs.net was established to give consumers an easy way to purchase concert tickets. Their recent discounts and promotions have given consumers even more choices when finding discount concert tickets both online and offline.
