Backgammon Masters Puts "21" Movie Blackjack Players to the Test

BackgammonMasters, the online gaming site that offers popular casino and board games including Blackjack, Backgammon and Poker, has enlisted the "Blackjack Teams" from Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) to test out their new Blackjack platform as well as their Basic Blackjack Calculator.

/24-7PressRelease/ - April 23, 2008 - To launch their new Blackjack Platform and Blackjack Calculator, Backgammon Masters Online Game Operators, renowned for their Backgammon, Poker and Blackjack gaming software, are teaming up with the MIT students of "21" movie fame. Who better than to test Backgammon Masters' ultimate Blackjack game than the experts themselves?

Backgammon Masters has proposed a challenge for these Blackjack players to coincide with the release of the Hollywood movie "21," starring Kevin Spacey. The film, based on Ben Mezrich's book "Bringing Down the House," is about a group of MIT (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) students who card counted their way to Las Vegas casino victory. Backgammon Masters' new technology will actually make it easier for card counters to play and win online Blackjack games.

The multiplayer 21 Blackjack software seats 5 players against one dealer. As the participants play, they will have the option of using the Blackjack calculator that's integrated into every game room. The calculator helps players make strategic decisions, mitigating the risks by testing their next moves before they actually make the plays. Unlike live casino play, in which players will often miss out on winning options, online play with the Blackjack calculator allows players to see all of their possibilities and then choose the strategically advantageous move. The challenge for the MIT Blackjack team will be to adjust to online play with a tool as powerful as the Blackjack calculator.

The Blackjack platform and calculator are just some of the new player options available at the Blackjack game center being developed by BackgammonMasters.com. New 21 Blackjack tournaments, where tables will form teams to compete against one another for Backgammon Masters' incredible prizes, are also a part of this all-in-one package.

If you're interested in testing the new Blackjack facilities at Backgammon Masters, you're invited to participate in the "Tell a Friend" promotion, where you'll earn bonuses for inviting friends to join you at the Blackjack tables.
