/24-7PressRelease/ - NORTH HIGHLANDS, CA, April 24, 2008 - Roni Lynn Deutch, A Professional Tax Corporation, saved it's clients over three million dollars in the first quarter of 2008 through accepted Offers in Compromise continuing it's dedication to American taxpayers.

"We stand up to the IRS and their aggressive collection activities," claims The Tax Lady Roni Deutch. "My law firm has been helping taxpayers for almost 18 years and we know how to negotiate with the IRS."

In the first three months of 2008, Ms. Deutch and her team of attorneys saved their clients a total of $3,386,770.00 through accepted Offers in Compromise. On average, these clients saved $49,805.44 in IRS back tax liability. The group owed the IRS a combined total of $3,768,618.00 that Roni Deutch's firm settled for $381,850.00 - a combined savings of $3,386,770. Please see the attached chart for more information.

"I had a very trying time in dealing with the IRS," notes Mr. Jeffrey Blevins, a client of Ms. Deutch's firm whose Offer in Compromise was accepted in January. "I thought I was in a nightmare, until I hired Roni Deutch. After hiring you and your law firm, things were so much better. The firm handled all the intimidating letters I was getting from the IRS and my stress level went way down. And when the IRS finally accepted my Offer in Compromise, the nightmare was over!"

"The IRS aggressively collects their debts using an assortment of liens, levies, garnishments, and seizures, " continues Ms. Deutch. "By using these powerful weapons, the IRS can get individuals to commit to unrealistic monthly payment plans. The advantage of an Offer in Compromise is that it gives taxpayers a chance to settle their tax debt while avoiding further collection activity."
