San Diego Watch And Clock Collectors Group Announces Dates For 2008 Southwest California Regional Mart

NAWCC Chapter 59 in San Diego announces that it will be hosting its annual Southwest California Regional at the Del Mar Fairgrounds, November 20-22, 2008. This antique and collectible watch and clock show attracts dealers and collectors from all over the globe.

/24-7PressRelease/ - SAN DIEGO, CA, April 29, 2008 - National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors (NAWCC) Chapter 59 today announced the dates for its 2008 Southwest California Regional: November 20 through 22 at the Del Mar Fairgrounds.

This annual event, which Chapter 59 manages every November with co-host Chapter 136, attracts watch and clock sellers and buyers from all over the world. Many antique dealers attend the Southwest California Regional to replenish their inventory of vintage clocks and watches, making it one of the few major events at which the average collector can discover true "wholesale" deals on collectible timepieces.

The venue in the Del Mar Fairgrounds' Wyland Center holds more than 250 tables, each laden with items for sale. In addition to complete collectible watches and clocks, you can find parts and tools for restoration and repair, horological books from technical manuals to lavishly photographed coffee table tomes, hard-to-find watchstraps and bracelets, and good old-fashioned one-man's-junk treasure dealers. Whether you need a correct set of weights for a Black Forest cuckoo clock, a new mainspring for an old-fashioned pocket watch, or a museum-quality antique mantel clock, you'll probably find it at the 2008 Southwest California Regional.

As the date of the event approaches, registration forms will be available online. For the latest information about the Southwest California Regional, visit <http://www.nawcc59.org/regional.html>.
