Americans can cash in with investments in Peru

As American investors struggle with the beginnings of a financial crisis in this country, many are looking overseas for investment opportunities that can bring them a great return in a short amount of time.

/24-7PressRelease/ - CENTURY CITY, CA, April 30, 2008 — As American investors struggle with the beginnings of a financial crisis in this country, many are looking overseas for investment opportunities that can bring them a great return in a short amount of time.

Manny Backus, known in investment circles as the stock trading whiz kid, says there are plenty of high yield profits to be made in the Peruvian stock market.

"It's a little known but fastest growing stock market in the world," Backus said. If someone had invested in these foreign stocks in 2006, "you could have made 11 times more money investing in Peruvian stocks than you did investing in American stocks."

The stock market in Peru grew 182 percent in 2006, compared to just 16 percent growth in the United States. One investor, who started with no experience at all, ended up making more than $287,000 in just 14 months investing in stocks in Peru.

Why is the Peruvian market so hot? Backus, who is also president and CEO of PortfolioCrafter.com and FirstHourTrading.com, says it's a matter of natural resources.

"Not many people know that the country of Peru has some of the world's richest natural resources, such as silver, copper, zinc and lead," all of which are in great demand. The country has also had a surge in manufacturing, both of which have lead to double and triple-digit returns for stock in those sectors.

But unlike the United States, analysts don't see the high yield market slowing down there until late in 2009, meaning smart investors have plenty of time to cash in on the investment opportunities.

Backus calls himself an "analytical maniac" and has developed a course on how to get triple digit or even quadruple digit returns in the fastest-growing stock market in the next two years with as little as $1,000 in investment capital.

This guide will help investors find out all the need to know about why and how to invest in foreign stocks, as well as reveal the top 12 stocks that seem most likely to double or triple in the next two years.

"The course provides information making it easy, quick and safe for Americans to invest in the red-hot Peruvian stock market, so they can see returns 11 times higher than the returns they are currently making, or more," Backus said. "When you jump on a hot trend at the right time, you can make a fortune, and for the Peru stock market, that time is now.
