Open Road Becomes Classroom for Executive Team Builders Courtesy of Dr. Rich Shoen and Dallas Fantasy Car Driving Company

/24-7PressRelease/ - DALLAS, TX, April 30, 2008 - Most corporate training managers know how important top performing teams are to achieving bottom line results. Nearly all of the vital functions in corporate America involve membership in teams of varying durations.

"Even a small gain in trust and team cohesiveness can translate into huge bottom line results," says Rich Shoen, a seasoned corporate consultant and DFW Drive Your Dream's new staff trainer for Corporate Team Building Events.

"The problem that most training managers face is finding a way to make team building engaging, exciting, and memorable," insists Dr. Shoen, an Amherst Ph.D. and veteran of 30 years' of top management at Fortune 500 companies.

"People are much more receptive to learning when the learning comes in an experience that is pleasurable and memorable," insists Mr. Shoen.

A day spent driving a Ferrari F430 F1, Lamborghini Gallardo, 600 HP Dodge Viper, Bentley Continental GTC, BMW M6 Convertible unquestionably qualifies as pleasurable and memorable for executives with an affinity for driving performance cars.

The full-day high-octane learning experience includes a customized curriculum designed to remove the roadblocks and help create a top performing team. In addition to the team building components, each participant receives complete instruction on driving each of the cars and at least 30 minutes of drive time in each vehicle.

"Corporate Team building events are fully customizable and can be done in any city in the United States," said Tom Warren, General Manager of DFW Drive Your Dream. To get more information or to book a corporate team building event, call Tom Warren at 817.838.7368.
