INVESTMENT PROPERTY WATCH: April 2008

Real estate in far-flung destinations proved to be massively popular again in March on TheMoveChannel.com, with some unusual locations dominating the top 10 list of hot investment properties on the site...

/24-7PressRelease/ - LONDON, UK, May 01, 2008 - Once again, TheMoveChannel's visitors shunned Europe's top real estate markets, preferring to take calculated risks on cheaper properties in emerging property markets across the globe. Indeed, this is the third month in a row where the world's most property established markets have been ignored by prospective investors.

In a major surprise, a country that had never been seen in the chart before clinched top spot. In a strong showing overall, the country also snagged 5th place in the chart, beating out more popular and enduring markets along the way.

To see which established markets were ignored and to discover the surprising new country at the top of the chart, please visit the Investment Property Watch section of our website here:
