Chemidex Expands into Plastics & Elastomers

Specialized industry search engine launches powerful tool for plastic and elastomer engineers.

/24-7PressRelease/ - OVERLAND PARK, KS, May 01, 2008 - Chemidex LLC, the leading search engine in the chemical and life sciences industries, today announced the launch of the Plastics & Elastomers Cybrary . This newest addition to the Chemidex community extends the time-tested Cybrary search model to the global plastics and elastomers industries. Chemidex currently serves Research & Development and product formulators representing over 24,000 chemical and life science companies worldwide and expects to continue the rapid growth of its registered membership with this launch. Now engineers in the broad spectrum of the polymer industry, including thermoplastics and thermosets, can enjoy the efficiency and productivity of the Chemidex Cybrary search model, enabling them to: search plastics raw materials (polymers, compounds, masterbatches, additives, colorants), download product specifications, technical data sheets, MSDS, corporate brochures and technical articles; order samples, and connect directly with product experts.

Chemidex membership is free for industry professionals and they are encouraged to join the Plastics & Elastomers Cybrary online at www.chemidex.com to get first-hand access to in-depth, qualified product information on over 800 raw material suppliers - all in one place.

Raw material/ingredient suppliers can contact us at sales@chemidex.com for more information on media opportunities in the Plastics & Elastomers Cybrary.
