ADAOX Launches ESET's SysInspector for Free-In-Depth Computer Diagnostics in the Middle East
New Diagnostic Tool Offers "Deep Dive" of System Processes; Targets Tech Support, Network Administrators

/24-7PressRelease/ - DUBAI, UAE, May 07, 2008 - ADAOX Middle East, the regional business development centre of ESET NOD32 Antivirus, today announced the the release of ESET's SysInspector, a "deep dive" diagnostic tool in the Middle East region. This comprehensive utility examines various operating system elements, including running processes, registry content, startup items and network connections to identify malware and other malicious content. With ESET SysInspector, security personnel, network administrators, malware researchers and support engineers are able to quickly and effectively diagnose computer and network related problems caused by malware.

"SysInspector generates a very detailed, real-time snapshot of your current system - down to processes and device drivers. That snapshot will save tech support, network administrators and other first responders a lot of time when diagnosing problems," said Anton Zajac, ESET CEO.

"We are happy to release SysInspector in the Middle East. ESET SysInspector is powered by an advanced heuristics engine that enables proactive detection of malware not covered by even the most frequently updated signature-based products. As a result, SysInspector runs faster than competitive system diagnostic tools and detects more malware and other problems, even assigning a risk level to those problems," explained Mr. Neo Neophytou, Managing Director at ADAOX Middle East.

"Competitive diagnostic tools include some of SysInspector's functionality, but we believe that our solution provides the most comprehensive view of a systems' environment," said Jakub Debski, lead developer, ESET. "SysInspector provides users with an unprecedented snapshot of what's happening on their systems. To achieve this level of granularity, you would traditionally have to run a number of separate utilities. On top of that, SysInspector runs a risk assessment, something simply not found in other programs."

ESET SysInspector is offered free of charge, at www.eset.com/download/sysinspector.php
