Where all the romantics have gone!

Finally a place where single romantics, ranging from the hopeless ones to closet romantics have a place to find like-minded people.

A new free dating website www.findaromantic.com offers the romantic in all of us a chance to happiness.

/24-7PressRelease/ - May 11, 2008 - Founded by a hopeless romantic Jon Cassanova (real name hidden) as an answer to his question of "where are all the romantic girls??"

Jon states that in today's fast paced world of career women and speed dating, he found that not too many girls he met and dated appreciated his need of romance in a relationship.

"What happened to candlelit dinners and walks on the beach?" he asks and decided to do something about this himself.

He started the website www.findaromantic.com recently and has already found great interest from thousands of people around the country. Much to his delight, the women still outnumber the men 2 to 1, so Jon has a pretty full social calendar this summer!

Registration is free for all romantics.

www.findaromantic.com is a free personals and web dating service that brings together romantic people from around the world.

With millions of members to choose from you should find your perfect romantic partner.
