Complore - a social community for students and teachers.

Complore a social community site for education has launched a new version with new look and advanced features. People can now add various content like lectures, tutorial, research paper, term papers and share it with friends anywhere, anytime.

/24-7PressRelease/ - May 13, 2008 - Now people can form close community by creating groups of interest and share their stuff within group as a private content or make it public.

Complore has introduced enhanced spam protection system and easy to use interface. Complore is useful for teachers especially as they can take online classes by creating lectures, tutorial, presentations and easily share with their students.

They can even add a widget to their site/home page/blog through which they can share their content with their students.

Complore plans to create more educational tools in near future to bring the educational community closer and bridge the gap between teachers and students.
