Internet Store Model by Processing Provider A-IBSLV

Processing company A-IBSLV has developed a basic model of an Internet store for its clients. Temporary free access will allow the company together with its users to develop an optimal model according to each client's requirements.

/24-7PressRelease/ - May 15, 2008 - A-IBSLV, processing services provider, has offered its clients a basic model of an Internet store. Presently, the company's clients can use the store's services for free within an advertising campaign. Another reason for making the store freely accessible is to give the clients an opportunity to adjust the store's functions up to their requirements.
