Graduation Gift Ideas From Cellhut

One of the internet's leading sellers of unlocked phones recommends some great cell phones as graduation presents.

/24-7PressRelease/ - NEW YORK, NY, June 19, 2008 - A new generation of students graduate from college and are thrust into the world this week. This is a cause for celebration, and for each new graduate it means a renewed self of self in the world. Graduation grants the chance to really make a mark, but without the proper cell phone those dreams can quickly vanish.

Telecommunications is the key to success in our society. Without the ability to communicate instantly, valuable connections may be lost. A proper phone that takes advantage of the latest technology is a guaranteed way to establish relationships with people. With 3G technology, surfing the web and downloading media from it has never been faster.

For this guide, Cellhut features the top phones in three different price ranges. The high-end will have all the latest features and technology, but cost the most. The middle-end will be a balance between cost and features. The low-end will have basic features and cost the least.

The high-end phone of this article and arguably the most fun to play with is the HTC Touch Diamond for $749.99. With this phone you certainly won't lose sight of your goal or the people you meet. With the 3G connection, surfing the internet will be a seamless affair and you'll be able to view people in your address book once you've taken a picture of them. 4 Gigabytes of storage, great TouchFlo software, Bluetooth, and a fast processor round out the features of this phone.

The Sony Ericsson W580i is a mid-level phone for $337.99. This is a great all-around phone which includes some features that are only found in more expensive models. A fantastic 2 Megapixel ensures that all the photos you take will be in great quality. There is an integrated step counter which will be a great way to stay in shape.

The Morotola Razr V3 Black is a low-end phone for somebody looking for the bare minimum in a phone, but doesn't want to skimp on quality. Essential features streamline the call making process and a stylish design ensures that this phone will stand out in the crowd. This phone is available for $147.98.

About Cellhut
