The <http://chronicpainsolutions365.com> blog is part of the greater Juliano Medical Blog Network. This is a twelve blog network containing links to a dozen well maintained alternative health related blogs. It is a great place to search and cross-reference for information: <http://julianomedicalnetwork.com>

This blog seeks to be a source of information for chronic pain management, chronic pain relief, chronic back pain, chronic pain syndrome, chronic pain treatment, chronic pain medications, chronic neck pain, cause of chronic hip pain, chronic regional pain syndrome, chronic ankle pain and more.

Chronic, or recurrent, pain afflicts more than seventy-five million people in the USA. This fact has received much scrutiny among health professionals over the last ten years. However, according to new findings, physicians often are not sure what specific treatments will treat their individual patients. None of the opiate pain-relievers were effective longer than four months, even though most individuals with chronic pain suffer for years and are given these drugs over long periods of time. The Chronic Pain Solutions 365 Blog seeks to offer information on alternative remedies versus other pain medications. Management of chronic pain is one of the biggest reasons people turn to alternative medicine.

Chronic pain often goes directly with mental illnesses like depression; this blog seeks to be a source of information about the impact of treating both the pain and the mental illness together. The mind-body approach will be a focus of information posted to this blog. The mind-body approach is meant to empower the mind's ability to affect the functions of the body. Mind-body therapies techniques can help alleviate discomfort related to chronic pain.

The Chronic Pain Solutions 365 Blog also seeks to spread awareness about such treatments as laser therapy for a chronic pain and coping with chronic leg pain, chronic hip pain, chronic low back pain, chronic nerve pain, chronic knee pain, chronic chestwall pain, chronic foot pain so check back often!
