Disappointed Clinton Supporters Create A New Political Action Committee

A new political action committee is formed out of this year's disappointing primary season. Our mission is to bring about reform in the election process, and inform voters concerning legislators pork barrel and grant projects.

/24-7PressRelease/ - QUINLAN, TX, July 07, 2008 - Disappointed Clinton supporters create a new political action committee. The goals of this Pac reach further than Barack Obama and Nancy Pelosi in November 2008. We are working for election and party reform. Furthermore, we've devised a way to begin to root out corruption in Washington. We are for term limits on legislators. Presidential term limitations have been in place since the early 1950's. Why not the legislative branch?

After November 2008, the goals of this committee are to stop re-election of corrupt politicians by exposing them to their constituents through 527 ads during their election cycles. Furthermore, we will be linking politicians to the pork barrel projects they propose, and the grants they work for.

We feel an informed voter makes solid choices. We also believe that the American public is angry that in this century of information at a touch, we are still electing our officials in practically the same manner as over two centuries ago. We feel there is no longer a need for the Electoral College. Nor is there a need for each state to fall in any particular column on election night. Popular vote, all across the Nation, should decide who our elected officials are.

We will, of course, work on other issues as they arise. However, we have a place to begin. Please, work with us to change the way our Federal Government conducts business. Visit us at www.belltoll.org. If you can, make a donation. If you can't give money, give us your time. We CAN work together to change this Nation.
