You can get Microsoft Dynamics GP Great Plains licenses through GP certified Partner channel. Each GP reseller carries certified technical and functional consultants to be in the program.

/24-7PressRelease/ - NAPERVILLE, IL, July 16, 2008 - You can get Microsoft Dynamics GP Great Plains licenses through GP certified Partner channel. Each GP reseller carries certified technical and functional consultants to be in the program. If you are looking for new ERP implementation and think that Great Plains Dynamics is a good fit, or would like to see the product demo, executive presentation, you should locate either local GP VAR or nation-wide Reseller who specializes in your industry. We would like to orient you in GP and our company consulting practice:

1. Great Plains Dynamics GP is matured ERP application, which should be a good fit for the majority of American, Canadian mid-size and small-to-mid-size businesses . GP has modules, supported directly by Microsoft Business Solutions and also add-ons, or modules, supported by GP ISV partners.
2. Modules Selection. You typically begin with standard accounting core: GL, AR, AP, Payroll, then you select Supply Chain and Logistics modules: Sales Order Processing, Inventory Control, Purchase Order Processing, then you select if required elements of MRP or Manufacturing modules (standard modules should fit to discrete manufacturing line). And now, you are doing your homework, selecting industry specific modules or add-ons, and if your business is too unique (and at the same time not too complicated) - you may consider programming your own custom add-on
3. Implementation and Support. GP Partner typically assigns to your implementation project GP certified consultant, who will be your project manager, and this consultant deploys technical consultants and if required GP programmers to setup your system: initial data conversion, GP installation, reports design, user training
