/24-7PressRelease/ - KIHEI, HI, July 17, 2008 - GreenMauiGuide.com, the first online environmental magazine for Hawaii, recently reached a milestone of 1000 visitors in one day. The guide which is described as the "Lonely Planet for green living" gives people the chance to experience a little eco-adventure to Maui right from their computer.

GreenMauiGuide.com is a wonderful and informative resource on how to go green. It is a great place to get news and feature articles about Maui. The site provides helpful hints on a range of topics from green romance in Maui to how to convert cars to electricity. It's also about local Maui people living a green lifestyle in a variety of ways This e-magazine is all about saving time, money and our planet!

The website has a "news" section, a "guide" with everything from greener footprint to greener giving, the "green pages," a free business listing section, and a "forum" which acts like a blog.

The founder, Larry Burke, is amazed at the need for the GreenMauiGuide.com in the community and beyond. When the magazine was launched, he wondered whether anyone would come... as it turned out he had over 10,000 visitors the first month from all around the world!

The GreenMauiGuide.com was founded to serve the Maui community. It is dedicated to forwarding Focus Maui Nui (model of sustainable island living) and inspired by ancient ahupua'a principles of ecology.

The GreenMauiGuide.com is a weekly e-magazine updated every Sunday evening Hawaii Time.
