The eBook Sale, a leading eBooks publisher, announces the formation of a partnership with Allbooks Review.

The eBook Sale, an up and coming eBook Publisher, is based in Limerick, Ireland. Richie O'Brien, The eBook Sale's founder, is delighted with the development saying that "this was the missing piece of the puzzle".

/24-7PressRelease/ - MISSISSAUGA, ON, CANADA, July 24, 2008 - Richie O'Brien further expands by saying that "providing a service for Authors, which now includes a professional review by a leading authority such as Allbooks Review, gives the Author honest, forthright and objective feedback of their work. There can also be excellent marketing and promotional benefits attached to such reviews".

Shirley A. Roe is the Managing Editor and founder of Allbooks Review. Founded in 2000 as a review source for POD and traditionally published authors, the business has grown and prospered over the past eight years. Voted one of the 101 Best Websites for Writers by Writer's Digest two years in a row... Shirley understands the concerns of authors as she is an author herself. Her credentials speak for themselves. She writes a column for the California Chronicles and is a regular reviewer for Foreword Magazine, Midwest Reviews, Mystique Books, Poetic Voices and several other prestigious review publications.

Under the partnership agreement, any author affiliated with The eBook Sale, can opt to have their writings reviewed by AllbookReviews. The review can be posted on our site, used to promote the eBook and even included in the publication. The author can also decide to avail of Allbook Reviews pre-publication editing service and book synopsis service.

About Allbooks Reviews

This is a strategic alignment for The eBook Sale who plan to expand into Print On Demand Publishing in the near future. "The quality and professionalism that Allbook Reviews will bring to our publishing service is of great importance" concludes Richie O'Brien. Allbooks Review is very well respected and well known throughout the industry. Their motto says it all - Allbooks Review, where books are appreciated and judged by their merits. Shirley Roe, Managing Editor of Allbooks Review International looks forward to a long and prosperous collaborations with The eBook Sale. Shirley is excited to be able to offer eBook and POD publishing to her clients.
