SiteStuff Wins Digie Award at Realcomm 2008

SiteStuff Chosen as an Innovative Technology Solution Provider by Realcomm

/24-7PressRelease/ - AUSTIN, TX, July 25, 2008 - SiteStuff, Inc., announced today that it has been awarded Realcomm's prestigious "Digie" (Digital Innovation) Award, which is presented yearly to the most ground-breaking real estate companies, individuals and solution providers. This will be SiteStuff's second Digie Award.

SiteStuff earned the Best Technology award in the real estate transaction category for pioneering an integrated solution that promotes sustainability through a paperless procurement process. SiteStuff and partners Yardi Systems, rCash, Cambridge and Bank of America successfully integrated procurement and invoice processing systems to help their joint client CB Richard Ellis develop a more efficient accounting method. The solution's technology and productivity initiatives create a holistic approach that unifies accounts payable processing activities within one interconnected, paperless processing flow.

"We are thrilled to be involved with such an innovative project. As an e-procurement services company, it was an easy decision for us to move forward with the electronic data interchange technology needed for transmitting and receiving accounts payable information," said Charlie Pace, SiteStuff CEO. "As commercial real estate clients purchase building supplies through our online catalog, our electronic data interchange cuts out massive amounts of time in the order cycle and reduces the amount of paper in the waste stream produced by paper invoices", he said.

"The Digie Award was designed to recognize the most forward-thinking companies and leaders in commercial real estate who are making the greatest impact through the use of technology and automation," said Jim Young, co-founder and CEO of Realcomm. "This year, SiteStuff was presented with this award as they exemplify this principle through the services they provide."

The award was presented at Realcomm 2008, an annual conference that provides a single place where real estate industry leaders can come together to discuss, analyze and debate the latest technologies and innovations.
