Atlascopy Announces New Outfitters Web Site

Atlascopy, Inc. has announced today that they have very recently launched a new web site "Atlascopy Outfitters". This web site is loaded with new products for the outdoors person with competitive prices and superior customer service.

DOVER, DE, October 05, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Atlascopy, Inc. has announced today that they have very recently launched a new web site at <http://atlascopyoutfitters.com>. This web site is loaded with new products for the outdoors person with competitive prices and superior customer service.

In an interview today Barry Shultz, President and CEO of Atlascopy, Inc., a Dover DE based company, has announced that the company just launched a new web site dedicated to the outdoors enthusiast. Titled Atlascopy Outfitters, <http://atlascopyoutfitters.com>, the web site is an addition to the companies chain of retail online stores.

“Outdoor enthusiasts are steadily gaining popularity because of the high cost of hotels and camping is gaining more and more attention”, Mr Shultz said. “In addition, many people are tuned into nature these days, especially on the coastal beaches and areas that attract tourists. It’s amazing how many people just want to get away from the suburban lifestyle and get back to nature. It cleanses them in a way that nothing else can. From just getting away to target a deer or elk or just camping in the great outdoors people of all ages need this refreshing, relaxing alternative. I believe we were all meant to experience something closer to nature than just the 9 to 5 grind.”

The web site features many common items and not so common items affiliated with the outdoors life. From Kayaks to Canoes and Tents to Outdoor Showers including everything in between for the camper and outdoor enthusiast, Atlascopy Outfitters appeals to people of all ages. From toy bow and arrows, blow guns and sling shots to heavy duty archery compound bows and muzzle loaders to safes, tree stands and reloading equipment and supplies.
