MileyCAD Limited providing CAD Services to the Worldwide Engineering Industry.

CAD Service to the worlds leading Building Services Consultants, Architects, Electrical and Mechanical Contractors, as well as prestigious manufacturers.

LONDON, UK, October 06, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Despite the credit crunch in the UK and the future of the economy not looking too bright, many construction projects are still going ahead and of course building work in places such as Dubai is keeping the engineering consultancies ticking over in the United Kingdom.

MileyCAD provide a professional and cost effective 'out of house' CAD Service to the worlds leading Building Services Consultants, Architects, Electrical and Mechanical Contractors, as well as prestigious manufacturers. With their experienced team of CAD Coordinators they provide a Computer aided drawing service second to none, with many companies now using MileyCAD full time as their own 'out of house' CAD department, therefore substantially reducing their overheads and time trying to source good reliable, experienced staff.

Not only is MileyCAD catering for the big industry leaders but many small businesses do not have their own in house CAD department so even the smallest of jobs can be catered for by their team to the highest quality and confidentiality.

Not only do they provide the latest in 3D MEP CAD work but they are now providing many interior designers, architects and builders and even glass manufacturers with 3D animated walkthroughs and realistic rendered visualizations. These 3D visualizations are an amazing way to provide the clients with a feel of a property of exactly what a room, object or landscape will look like prior to construction. Gone are the days of trying to sell a property or idea from a 2D paper plan, now the client can walkabout the property and get a feel of the surroundings before deciding to buy off spec.

Many companies have tried sending work abroad to cut costs but have had some serious quality issues and breakdowns in communications, with MileyCAD clients can have peace of mind that everything is done to high standards and a consultant is always at hand via email, fax and telephone for the duration of a project and in many cases a representative from MileyCAD will be present at the start of the project to discuss in person and throughout the duration of the project at various design meetings.

We have noticed some companies have CAD Engineers where they design and draw the layouts, from experience working with the worlds most experienced companies and key people we have learned that this doesn't in reality work, engineers should spend their time concentrating on the red pen markups and design input for the project, while MileyCAD are the experts in CAD so leave the drawing work to them, this way a much better result is achieved as lots of concentration goes into both aspects of the design phase and one person will always struggle to do this at such a high level.

MileyCAD are proving time and time again that they are experts in the field of CAD drafting and support for all type of companies that require drawing and draughting work in their work place, which is why even in these trying times many companies are coming back time and time again to use their services and in order to streamline their projects and reduce overheads helping them achieve stability for all in the construction industry for many years to come.
