Bean Services Declares War on Paper-Based Invoices

Web based app saves up to 70% on processing costs.

VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA, October 10, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Software company Bean Services today announced the launch of beanbills 2.0, a user friendly web-based service designed to streamline the accounts payable process, and save organizations up to 70% of invoice related overhead.

Beanbills optimizes, automates and streamlines invoice processing for small to medium sized businesses. By combining new document scanning, recognition and reporting technologies, beanbills dramatically reduces accounting overhead - and improves controls. Beanbills accommodates existing processes, allowing companies to easily adopt its solution with minimal setup and disruption. No modifications to existing accounting software is required. It is an ideal solution for service-based organizations, such as property management and development, construction, shipping, health-care, government and professional services.

"Beanbills has evolved into a powerful yet simple online payables solution," says David Towert, founder of Meridian Systems - a leading software application within the construction industry. "Anybody who touches a bill will find it to be a profoundly useful application."

Adds Bean Services founder Jarrod Levitan: "Endless paper has long been the enemy of accounting and operating processes. Finally we have a secure solution to instantly access, control and process this information, saving time and money. In the battle for the paperless office, Beanbills is the ultimate weapon."
