ListingVUE.com Now Offers Real Estate Yard Signs

Offering exposure, aside from an internet listing, on your own front yard provides the necessary awareness for a property to get sold.

CHICAGO, IL, October 14, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- It is understandable that nowadays a typical home buyer starts their real estate search browsing the internet, but yard signs still add a finishing touch to a home for sale or for rent especially to people that are in the surrounding area of that particular home. Some time ago yard signs were an enormous help in marketing a property because people had the time and gas money to drive around and look for homes, but due to technological advances the level of importance has diminished drastically and the yards signs that are still around had to have many facelifts to maintain their necessity. ListingVUE.com has provided the necessary facelift for their yard signs in order for sellers and even realtors to purchase them; great color schemes along with a vanity listing ID have separated ListingVUE.coms' yard signs from the rest.

When creating a listing on this website each property is given its own generic listing ID, or an ID may be selected that will be its own unique Vanity Listing ID that is an alphanumeric combination of up to 15 characters. Regardless of which ID is selected, once the yard sign arrives, the ID will already be stuck onto the yard sign in big, bold, blue letters/numbers making it very easy to see to any passer by. The website URL is in a large font with an orange color making it very easy to see as well; therefore along with large font and friendly colors the yards signs provided by ListingVUE.com have acquired the necessary advances in order to catch the eye of any person driving by a home that is currently on the real estate market.
