Reading Transmission Repair Company Announced Today The Offer Of A Free Diagnostic Scan To Help Consumers Help Economic Conditions

The Check Engine light is a big indicator that there is a problem with either the engine or the transmission. This free diagnostic scan can help determine if it is an internal or external problem.

READING, PA, October 15, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Jeff & Tammie Arms, owner's of a local transmission repair business, today decided to offer a Free Diagnostic Service to help local consumers with the recession. A lot of auto repair shops charge a fee for this service, but anyone that brings their vehicle in to the shop within the next 30 days will receive a Free Diagnostic Scan. This comprehensive scan will let the owner of the vehicle know what could be wrong with the car or truck.

"Everyone is feeling the effects of the economy, so we wanted to give something back to the community. This scan is absolutely free, there is no hidden cost or fees. With the economy in this state we know that some people can't afford the extra fees associated with diagnosing a car, so we wanted to do this for free for our local community" Says Jeff Arms, Owner.

Local consumers can take advantage of this Free Service by calling: 610-777-9340 or visiting their Website at: ReadingTransmissionRepair.com you can also email info@readingtransmissionrepair.com There is an initial limit of 1 per customer but exceptions will be made on an as needed basis. This free service is being offered on a first come first served basis.

The Check Engine light is a big indicator that there is a problem with either the engine or the transmission. This free diagnostic scan can help determine if it is an internal or external problem. At that point the consumer can make a decision to have us look inside the transmission or not. There is no obligation past the free diagnostic service.
