Equestrain Property Development Bucks Financial Trend

The property consists private villas set in a complete privacy of 114 hectares of countryside. Comprising 52 villas, some with private swimming pools, Herdade Do Gizo also has a club house as well as the equestrian centre.

LONDON, UK, October 15, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- International property developers Maexpa International are going against the tide of financial gloom by developing several projects in both Portugal & Poland. The developer goes further still by constructing a niche development in Portugal aimed at horse lovers every where at Herdade Do Gizo

The property consists private villas set in a complete privacy of 114 hectares of countryside. Comprising 52 villas, some with private swimming pools, Herdade Do Gizo also has a club house as well as the equestrian centre. The estate villas combine tradition with modern comfort, reproducing Alentejo's architecture and bright painted stucco walls, with wide floor to ceiling windows and wood interiors.

Nicholas Marr CEO of overseas property website <http://www.Homesgofast.com> recently visited Herdade do Gizo "The development is truly unique, the mix of modern styled villas that sit in a rural setting along with the equestrian feel is a complete surprise and not something I have come across before. The location is extremely tranquil and is near to several interesting traditional towns and villages. One village at Evora is a holiday makers dream a UNESCO world heritage town which is located about halfway between the airport and the resort "

The Gizo Estate is just 90 minutes away from Lisbon and also equidistant to the Algarve with excellent link by the A2 motorway. It will also later benefit from the upcoming Beja International Airport which will be just 20Km away when operational in 2010.

Alentejo province touches the Spanish border on the east and the Algarve at its south end. It is one of the most unspoilt natural places to relax in southern Portugal with castellated hilltop towns and Moorish architecture strewn along cobbled streets and quaint alleys.

The Gizo estate has a very wide range of horses available; the horses are between 1.5 and 1.6 metres high. A resident English speaking trainer can give all riders a short assessment before being allowed to saddle up.

Notes to editors:

Property Developer <http://www.Maexpa-international.co.uk> was established in 1989 and focuses on top end residential and commercial property developments. Its company motto is 'the perfect project in the perfect location'. With its head office in Santiago de Compostela, Spain, Grupo Maexpa has expanded throughout the Iberian Peninsula. Portuguese and Spanish developments still make up the majority of its project portfolio but it has also expanded into Mexico, Morocco, Poland, Angola, Romania, Hungary and Slovakia. The group has grown steadily for many years, sales revenue rose from 145 million in 2003 to 210 million in 2005 and 290 million by 2006. For the first time Grupo Maexpa is marketing its properties to the UK. It opened a London Sales Office in Victoria in May 2008 which will be managed by David Black, International Sales Manager and a team of professional sales consultants.
