A Fantastic New Resource for International Jobseekers

Find the ideal permanent, contract or freelance role you are looking for with Huxley Associates.

MANCHESTER, UK, October 15, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The stylish new www.huxley.com site was redesigned following extensive consultation with Huxley Associates' customers all over the world. It incorporates a wide array of features to enable visitors to find the ideal position or skilled professional they are looking for within the IT, Finance, Human Resources and Engineering sectors.

Candidates can use the site to upload their CV, perform focused job searches, sign up for job alerts and more. Clients can search for niche skilled people, register a vacancy, read testimonials from satisfied customers and keep up to date with company news.

The new website caters for international visitors across the UK, Europe, the USA and Asia and has been translated into four different languages. Huxley Associates consultants deal with permanent and contract positions at all levels of seniority, with a particular focus on niche skilled roles.

Huxley Marketing Manager Karen O'Leary explained that the site has a prestigious look and feel and even features photographs of real company employees.

She said: "Our aim was to produce a slick and aesthetically pleasing site that our customers will enjoy visiting to help them with their recruitment needs. We invested a lot of time with our clients and candidates during focus groups to ensure that we could develop a site that would provide our customers with all the information and support they need."

Karen explained that the feedback so far has been "excellent" and that Huxley's customers have been impressed by the number of job opportunities and CV's of skilled professionals that are available on the site.

The relaunch of the primary website follows on from Huxley Associates' revamp of its internal recruitment (www.huxleyopportunities.com) and Global Markets-specific (www.huxleyglobalmarkets.com) websites.
