Get a Shared Office in Canada's Economic Capital: Toronto

Toronto is one of the top financial cities in the world and a great address to consider for global businesses. The city is incredibly attractive to a significant number of banks, brokerage businesses and corporations, most of them located on Bay Street, in the city's Financial District.

TORONTO, ON, October 16, 2008 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Toronto is one of the top financial cities in the world and a great address to consider for global businesses. The city is incredibly attractive to a significant number of banks, brokerage businesses and corporations, most of them located on Bay Street, in the city's Financial District. The city is also a strategically important location for the media, telecommunications and IT sectors.

The cities makeup is highly cosmopolitan with 49% of the population born outside Canada. There are low crime rates and a clean environment, which makes Toronto one of the world's most desirable cities.

High demand for office space coupled with low availability make office searches particularly difficult with little chance of finding the ideal option. For businesses looking for office space to let on Bay Street in the Financial District, look no further as this business centre operator offers one of the most flexible and prestigious offices in this area and currently has space available . This is a premium centre highly recommended by Search Office Space (SOS), the Original global office broker.

The shared offices are located in WaterPark Place, a class "A" building easily accessible from major highways, with direct subway access.

The operator can provide businesses with one of the most flexible solutions available in town. Offices can be rented by the hour or on a short term agreement. A large range of amenities are available, featuring state of the art IT, secretarial support, professional telephone answering and many more.

Also offered by the hour or day are conference rooms, boardrooms and meeting rooms, all equipped with the latest multimedia presentation tools including worldwide video-conferencing.

This centre offers one of the best office locations in Toronto and will be able to provide all businesses with a tailored office solution.

Should you wish to take a tour or get a quote for an office space in this building, please contact Daniel Soffer on 888-989-0006 or email sales@sos-america.com.
