“At MAST, we aim to capitalize on those 15 minutes between valet and check-in – we want to you be noticed...”

Born in Los Angeles, MAST was bred to embody casual elegance. Emulating California luxury, the brand launched with its signature, functional carryalls and is now methodically expanding to include in-demand essentials such as travel gear. 100% handmade and locally produced, each piece from the MAST collection is comprised of the highest quality materials. These investment worthy pieces are all individually produced, with their seasonal selections being limited edition.

Cultivating a following of individuals who appreciate the value of handmade accessories, MAST is the new “it” bag for well-traveled men and women across the globe.

Steve Solari | Creative Director

A Southern California native who divides his time between the fast-paced Los Angeles scene and the eclectic, desert retreat city of Palm Springs, Steve's innate ability to combine fashion with function resulted in the birth of MAST. The brand is an extension of his belief that excellent style is an essential part of living well. Influenced by raw beauty found in destinations around the globe, his passion for jet-setting creates the perfect platform for consistent, cutting edge design inspirations. Steve's intricate career which has included a hybrid of interior design, luxury apparel development and art dealing, has sharpened his inherent ability to curate color, structure, and form.

As Creative Director at MAST, Steve is committed to building a brand that exudes integrity and quality while creating opportunities close to home. Choosing to manufacture MAST in Los Angeles has enabled him to seek out some of the best craftsmen in the field, while ensuring that each step of MAST's evolution is shaped by his personal touch. In his experience, the greatest reward often occurs when one is willing to take a risk. Just like his favorite drink, a Tanqueray and tonic with two limes, Steve never compromises for anything less than desired, which ultimately has made MAST a destination in a league of its own.

MAST Resort embodies an undeniable, casual elegance that men and women of today crave.

MAST Resort is all about casual California luxury. Born in L.A., MAST aims to bring you a functional carryall, that happens to be beautiful. All of our products are 100% handmade to order, and in some cases are available only in limited numbers.

Their products speak to the person who appreciates the value of locally produced bespoke items, has a lust for the perfect weekend escape and loves turning any journey into an extraordinary one.

Founder and Creative Director Steve Solari grew up basking in the Southern California sun, dividing his time between the fast-paced Los Angeles scene combined with weekend desert retreats in Palm Springs. A style connoisseur with a keen eye for detail, he has a deep understanding and appreciation for aesthetics and is able to recognize beauty in its various forms. A former art gallery director and luxury retail jockey, he is well versed in the fields of fashion and fine art and isn't afraid to play with color, structure and form. "MAST Resort embodies an undeniable, casual elegance that men and women of today crave." Says Steve Solari.

If you want a bag that is convenient for travel, this is a good buy, then you need to look no further than the Onyx Tote (previous page). However, if you use it for weekend events and vacation (as I do), it is perfect. Center compartment is large enough for your wallet and souvenirs and more.

You can't go wrong with this timeless and sporty Dune Duffie (pictured right). It's a look that any man can pull off and whether the appeal resonates with some idea of a distant safari adventure. Comes in canvas with leather trim. It fits nicely into an airlines overhead compartment and the floor-to-floor zipper makes packing easy and painless. It also has an side pocket for holding a passport and travel supplies.
